WHILE THE WEATHER IS FINE

From our Olympia Correspondent.

OLYMPIA, Jan. 8, 1862.

But little of importance was transacted in either branch of the Legislature, except the election of a Public Printer by the Joint Convention of both houses. Alonzo M. Poe, Esq., of the Overland Press, was the fortunate candidate on the 5th ballot, he receiving 21 votes, out of 35, the remaining vote of 14 being distributed between Messrs. Sohns of Vancouver, and Murphy of the Standard. Poe's vote on the 1st ballot was 12, Smith of Walla Walla 7, Sohns 7, Murphy 6. On the 4th ballot, Poe got 17 votes. The other gentlemen all received their best vote on the first ballot.

Poe is a reliable Union man and supporter of the Government, not claiming, however, to be a republican, and never suspected of any affiliation with democracy. It is presumed this choice will be acceptable to the Secretary.

The Council passed a fee bill for the 1st Judicial District, (the mining country) about doubling the fees as at present fixed by law.

The House, by a vote of 14 to 13, divorced John G. Sparks, of Walla Walla, who said he was unhappy with his present wife, who lives in the States. They were hardly as long divorcing this couple, as I am in chronicling the passage of the bill.

The House also elected the Rev. E. W. Foster, of Swantown, Chaplain, by a vote of 13 to 4 for Rev. Mr. Doane.

JANUARY 7th.—Snow commenced falling last evening about dusk, and now covers the ground to the depth of over twelve inches. Many cattle hereabouts have been lost. Our oldest settlers say that the last fortnight, during the whole of which snow has laid upon the ground, has exceeded in severity and duration, any stretch of real winter they have experienced in this country.

The Rev. E. W. Foster, Chaplain elect of the House, arrived at the House this morning after roll call, and desired to open the meeting with prayer. "Ferg," from Skamania, the Speaker, ruled him out of order, as the order of business could not be dispensed with. The House was content, though deprived of that prayer of which Acting Governor Turney deems they so much stand in need.

Two more divorce bills were introduced, and referred to the Committee of Ways and Means. Thus day after day is the marriage covenant made a subject of sport and ridicule. The Legislature itself ridicules these applications, yet it goes on and makes itself more ridiculous by invariably granting them. These two bills will undoubtedly pass.

A bill has been introduced in the House to repeal the law incorporating the "Oregon Steam Navigation Company." It is made the special order for Friday next.

Several bills of a local character were introduced, and appropriately referred.

In the Council.

Col. Hubbs introduced some six bills, regulating the practice, creating some new District Courts for counties, and are prescribing the qualifications for jurors. In the discussion of the Capital location, it was found that the law of 1854 on jurors, had been printed without the "enacting clause." To remedy this deficiency, this bill is intended. Among the bills he creates a District Court for this county, and also one for Pierce—intending that Port Townsend shall be the place where the U. S. District Court for the 3d District shall be held. But as the Supreme Court now in session fixes the times and places of holding the Federal Courts in the respective districts, it is thought the venerable gentleman may be disappointed in his expectations.

Mr. Moore also introduced a bill amending the law regulating attachments.

The Council, by a vote of 5 to 3, passed the Thorndike divorce bill.

Considerable feeling exists as to the re-assignment of the Judges. It is supposed that Chief Justice Hewitt will select the 3d. Judge Wyche is willing to go to the 1st, though preferring to remain in his old district, where he has already provided a home. My impression is that Judge Oliphant will be assigned to the Vancouver District. We cannot tell, as the Legislature has sole management of the matter.

W. W. Johnson's contest for a seat from Walla Walla was again brought before the House, and referred to a select committee for investigation.

Neither House sits to-morrow, as it is the glorious 8th of January.

JANUARY 9.—The House this morning was opened with a sermon and a prayer by Rev. E. W. Foster.

The Select Committee to whom had been referred the right of W. W. Johnson, of Walla Walla, to a seat in the House, reported against his claims, and the report was adopted.

Mr. Griswold introduced a memorial praying the fortification of the mouth of the Columbia.

Some three or four divorce bills were introduced. Three before introduced were passed, and those introduced to-day will pass to-morrow.

There was quite an animated discussion on the bill repealing the charter of the Oregon Steam Navigation Company, which was finally indefinitely postponed.

Mr. Gardner introduced a bill to incorporate the Washington Steam Navigation Company. Ordered printed.

A bill was introduced in the House Judge Hewitt to the Mining District, Judge Wyche to Vancouver District, and Judge Oliphant to the 3d or Puget Sound District. At the same time the Council passed a bill assigning the Judges, differing from the above by assigning Judge Oliphant instead of Chief Justice Hewitt, to the 1st or Walla Walla District. It is difficult to tell what will be the ultimate arrangement. There is considerable feeling on the subject.

Bills were introduced relating to pilotage on Columbia river and Shoalwater Bay, and to incorporate the city of Walla Walla.

Mr. Beatty, of the Shoshone and Walla Walla Delegation, arrived this evening, and will take his seat to-morrow.

In the Council.

The Rev. Mr. Evans, Chaplain, opened the Council with prayer; and having given the members of that body some salutary advice, Mr. Hubbs suggested that in electing him Chaplain, he did not acquiesce the rights of a member; and on his motion, Mr. Evans' further services as Chaplain were dispensed with.

Council was engaged quite a length of time on the Council bill assigning the Judges. By a vote of 6 to 1, it passed—assigning Judge Oliphant to Walla Walla, Wyche to Vancouver, and Hewitt to this District, including Olympia.

Several divorce bills were also under consideration.

The other business was of a local and uninteresting character.

Snow covers the ground to the depth of twenty inches to two feet, and it is now freezing. We have had no mail, south of Monticello, this week.

A. W. Poe, the Public Printer, has rented the old Pioneer office, and has qualified.

QUID NUNC.

FROM OLYMPIA—LEGISLATIVE ITEMS.—On the 13th, in the House: memorial relative to mail routes above the Cascades, passed. In the Council, same memorial passed. Bill permitting Green, White and others to establish a ferry across Snake river, passed. Several other bills for ferries referred.

On the 14th in the House, bills to establish ferries across Salmon river, read. In the Council, bills for ferries across Snake river, to construct wagon roads, bridges across the same, were passed.

On the 15th, in the House, bill for the construction of a bridge across Salmon river, passed. Bill for ferry across Lewis and Snake river, passed. In the Council, bill for bridge across the Clearwater, referred.

In the House, 16th, bill to authorize R. Holmes and Jas. Clinton to establish a ferry across Snake river, passed. In the Council several bills for ferries across the upper rivers were referred.

On the 17th, in the House, many new bills introduced, which will be notified hereafter. In the Council, several new bills were read and referred.

On the 18th, in the House bill to incorporate Lower Cascades and Island Transportation Company; to incorporate the Rockland and Deschuttes Transportation Company; the Washington Steam Navigation Company; the Cascades Rail Road Company; to amend the act incorporating Oregon Steam Navigation Company; were read the third time and passed. In the Council, bill to incorporate Columbia Transportation Company, passed.

Arrival of Tracy & Co.'s Salmon River Express at the Dalles

300 pounds of Gold Dust!

Mr A. J. Cain, in company with Mr H S. Niles, arrived in this city yesterday at noon, bringing Tracy & Co's Express, to whom we are indebted for a copy of the Mountaineer. These gentlemen left the Dalles on Saturday last, and reached the Cascades on snow-shoes, and thence on the ice of the Columbia to Sandy, and from there by land to this city. Mr Niles is direct from the Salmon river mines. He reports no suffering there among the miners for want of provisions; also plenty of food at Walla Walla and the Dalles.

We give our columns to the details of this news.

From the Mountaineer Extra of Jan 20th.

Arrival of Tracy & Co.'s Express.—The Treasure Safe—Particulars of the Trip.

On Monday last, about noon, John James Esq in charge of Tracy & Co's Express arrived at the Dalles, bringing with him three hundred pounds in treasure, and a large number of letters. From Mr James we learn many particulars of the ill-starred trip in which Jagger, Allphin, and Davis lost their lives, and so many others suffered untold horrors. On Saturday, January 4th, at 8 A M the stage left Walla Walla for the Dalles having the following passenger list: John D James, Tracy & Co's Express, Walla Walla; I. L Jagger, Portland; W A. Moody, James Gay, H S Niles, Eugene City; T. S Jeffries, Bethel, Polk County; Charles Wilson, Salem; R Bolton, Sailor Diggings, California; and H. Wellington, destination unknown. The party started in good health and spirits. After suffering many inconveniences and delays by the way, they finally reached John Day's River, all safe and sound. This was on Wednesday, the eighth of January. The stages at the Dalles end of the route failed to connect at this point, and accordingly the passengers had to prepare for a detention that possibly might last for weeks. [A full detail of their doings in this regard will be found in the Journal kept by Mr. Jagger.] On Friday night January 10th, a stranger came to the house, and left early the next morning, on his way to the Dalles. This man has not been heard of since, and the probability is that he perished in the snow.

During the stay at the John Day House the company was increased by the arrival of F M Allphin from the Umatilla, and Pat Davis, understood to be from the mines.

The detention at the John Day was in the last degree wearisome, and accordingly various expedients were devised and debated with a view to getting away. On Sunday morning Jan 12th, their patience exhausted, Messrs Jas Gay, W H Moody, F M Allphin, and Pat Davis, announced their intention to start out and reach the Des Chutes on foot. After incredible suffering the first two succeeded in reaching their destination. The party had not made more than four miles from the John Day when Mr. Allphin gave out and laid down by the side of the trail. Mr Davis proceeded probably a mile further, when he became exhausted and turned back. Neither of these men have since been heard from, and the probabilities are that they died that night. Mr. Allphin has a wife and two children living on the Umatilla. He has also a brother M. J. Allphin, engaged in business at the Dalles, and, if we mistake not, a father and mother who reside in Linn County Oregon.

The party reduced by the departure of the four men, remained at the John Day House until Wednesday, the 15th, when Mr James having procured a wagon and six horses it was determined to make a desperate effort to continue their journey. At the time of starting the party numbered [illegible] persons as follows: I. E. Jagger, John D James, H Wellington, H S Niles, D McDougal, J Mulkey, J E Glover, T S. Jeffries, Charles Wilson and R Bolton. They left the John Day at 8 a m with the express wagon drawn by six horses. The snow on the side of the John Day Hill was some four feet deep and the cold was intense. After much exertion they succeeded in getting the express matter and three horses to the top of the hill. It was now 12 o'clock noon and a consultation was held as to the practicability of proceeding. A majority determined to push forward. Jagger said he "had his face set for it and could make it." Mr James was of opinion that they could not make the station that night, so he deemed it best to take the treasure, express matter etc and return. Messrs Bolton and Wilson also thought it best to return. Efforts were made to induce Jagger to return, but to all representations of this kind he replied that "where others went he could follow." Farewells were then exchanged and the parties separated—some of them never to meet again. Messrs James, Wilson and Bolton then returned to the house of Thomas Scott, where they remained down to Saturday, the 18th. James, on the way back, had both his feet badly frosted but through the kind attentions of Mr Scott, soon recovered from his injuries.

THE EXPRESS

Mr. James, in charge of the express, left Scott's house, on Saturday the 18th accompanied by quite a large party, among whom were Messrs I Kaufman and Dan Welch. They arrived at John Day's that night and left early the next morning making the trip through to the Des Chutes without difficulty and arriving at the Dalles on Monday January 20th at 3 p m. Mr James deserves great credit for the energy he displayed throughout the whole of the unfortunate trip. He had in his charge an immense amount of treasure, divided up into small parcels, and at times it was in the hands of perhaps quite half a dozen persons. On comparing the way bill at the office in this city it was found that not a single dollar was missing.

Terrible Sufferings—Three Men Frozen to Death—Names of the Dead and Living.

Messrs C H Johnson and Fred M Stocking left the Dalles on Saturday 18th inst for the Des Chutes taking with them blankets, provisions and everything necessary to the comfort of the poor unfortunate men who had suffered so severely from the cold. They reached the [illegible] in the evening but were unable to cross the Des Chutes river, the ice having given way. On Sunday morning they rigged up a hand sleigh and crossing the Columbia some distance [illegible] the mouth of the Des Chutes succeeded with much labor in reaching the house of Mr Poole, where they found [illegible] the sufferers [illegible] Messrs [illegible] immediately [illegible] for their removal and making two trips they succeeded in bringing six of the unfortunates [illegible]. The other two [illegible] remaining [illegible]. Four of them were brought to the Dalles by Mr C H Johnson [illegible] yesterday [illegible] in the evening and were immediately taken to the Umatilla House where they will receive every attention that kindness or humanity can suggest. These men are named respectively Wm Riddle, Dougal McDonald, H Wellington and T S Jeffries. About an hour later Mr F M Stocking arrived having with him W A Moody and James Gay. These last two were taken to the Western Hotel where they will receive every kindness and attention.

From Messrs Stocking and Johnson we learn the following particulars relative to these unfortunate sufferers. On Sunday morning Jan 12 at 11 A M Messrs W A Moody, Jas Gay, Martin Allphin and Pat Davis left the crossing of John Day's River for the Des Chutes. That night Allphin and Davis gave out and were left on the road. Moody and Gay walked all that night and Monday till midnight and then built a fire and thawed out their feet which were badly frozen. At daylight they started and reached Poole's house about 10 o'clock having travelled all but one mile from camp. The feet of both these men are badly frozen. Allphin and Davis have not been heard from and are supposed to have perished.

On Wednesday Jan 15th, Messrs J Mulkey, T S Jeffries, H Wellington, Wm Riddle, Dougal McDonald, J. E Glover, C Nichols, H S Niles and I E Jagger left John Day's for the Des Chutes. They were out two days and two nights. Jagger was the first one of this party that gave out. He was left on the road, about fifteen miles from the Des Chutes and though not frozen was utterly exhausted. Mr Wellington the last man left him at daybreak on the 16th. Of this party Niles is the only one that escaped uninjured. Messrs Riddle and Jeffries are frozen all over and the balance suffered greatly in their feet, hands and ears. Jagger without doubt, has perished.

Messrs R E Miller and A J Kane started out from the Des Chutes on Saturday morning to search for Jagger's body. Not having been heard from up till Sunday noon, fears are entertained for their safety. A party consisting of John Irvin, [illegible] O'Brien and Frank Shelton were about to start out in search of Miller and Kane.

The John Irvin mentioned above is a noble fellow. He was one of the party that went and [illegible] Mulkey and in doing so he had one of his feet badly frosted. Notwithstanding his injury he promptly volunteered to go in search of Miller and Kane. All honor to the man who thus nobly responds to the calls of humanity.

The highest credit is due to C. B. Poole and family, who have kept and cared for the whole party since they came in. The sufferers required constant attention day and night and these attentions were generously and cheerfully rendered.

In this connection, great credit is due to Messrs Stocking and Johnson who went to the relief of the unfortunate men, and never rested until they had placed them in conditions of comparative comfort.

From the Mountaineer of Jan 23d

The Search for the Body of I. E. Jagger.

Mr A J Kane has furnished us with the following particulars of the search made by himself and Mr R E Miller for the body of Mr I E Jagger. They left the Des Chutes on Saturday and followed up the Columbia to the mouth of Mud Springs, then to Miller's Station, which place they reached about sundown. The search was resumed the next morning at sunrise and the trail struck about four miles from the station. This they followed down to within sight of the Columbia but without success. They then took the back track but [illegible] the trail so that it was difficult to trace it. They however persevered, and just before dusk [illegible] the body of Mr Jagger. From all appearance he had [illegible] the place where he had [illegible] by his [illegible]. The blanket with which they had [illegible] had blown off thus exposing his person. They then with some difficulty [illegible] the body to the station [illegible] where it remained over night. Subsequently the body was removed to the Dalles, arriving here on Monday evening [illegible] o'clock. We were present at the uncovering of the corpse, which presented a perfectly natural appearance. The features were [illegible] and the general aspect was that of a person [illegible] asleep. It is thought that he died very shortly after being left by Mr Wellington on the morning of the [illegible]. The snow where the body was found [illegible] an attempt to rise. In all probability as soon as he laid down [illegible] sleep [illegible] no waking. Deceased was a native of New York and quite young—[illegible] years of age. He has [illegible] eight years—the greater [illegible] at Portland [illegible] as a clerk in the [illegible] Hill [illegible] [illegible] which [illegible] father and mother [illegible] the [illegible] bereavement.

The Missing Men.—Up to this writing (Thursday night) nothing has been heard from either of the men who are supposed to have been lost on the way from John Day's to the Des Chutes. Messrs [illegible] search for them [illegible] the messenger [illegible] John Day [illegible] [illegible].

The Sufferers.—[illegible] trip from John Day's [illegible] Mr Riddle [illegible] amputation of [illegible] just above the ankle [illegible] will have to be operated upon, each losing a portion of their feet. These men are under the care of Dr Hogg. Messrs Moody and Gay have been removed to a private dwelling where they have the attendance of Dr Hunter. They are doing well. Mr Mulkey and [illegible] other unfortunates remain at the Des Chutes. We are not apprised as to their condition.

Mr James Gay had the little toe of each foot amputated on Monday last. The operation was performed by Dr J W Hunter, and the patient is doing well.

Painful Rumor.—A rumor reaches us that five or six men have been frozen to death in Clickitat Valley. We have no particulars and can only hope that the report may prove unfounded.

Condition of the Stock.—The reports that reach us in regard to the condition of stock are by no means encouraging. The cattle out in the Tygh are reported to have suffered terribly. The same is true of Fifteen Mile Creek and [illegible] the locality in the neighborhood of the Dalles. In the Clickitat Valley [illegible] of stock has been twenty [illegible]. Mr Roberts [illegible] Simcoe informs us that the cattle in the Yakima [illegible] suffered very slightly. [illegible] Others have lost a [illegible] [illegible] all the winter has been a hard [illegible].

Prospecting Party.—The party that left the Dalles on the 14th for Walla Walla in charge of Frank Tompkins [illegible] at John Day [illegible] [illegible] of the party [illegible] at this date.

The express [illegible] at the Dalles [illegible] the [illegible] [illegible] Mr Jagger [illegible].

Winter Traveling

A Trip from Salmon River, as Narrated by T. S. Jeffries.

The following sketch [illegible] from the pen of the late [illegible]

Left Florence City Dec 20th, 1861, arrived at Slate Creek Dec 21st—distance 25 miles. [illegible] Were joined by Dr Gay. Left Slate Creek Dec 24th, snow two inches deep. Crossed Camas Prairie and arrived [illegible] at the forks of the trail at midnight—distance 40 miles. Started on the morning of the 26th, got to Craig's saw mill the following night—distance 40 miles; thence to Lewiston 20 miles. Snow six inches deep. Stopped at Lewiston two days, were there joined by Chas Wilson and Richard Bolton, from Salmon. While there a robbery and possible murder occurred, as follows: Three Germans (names forgotten) had erected a shake house with canvas doors and windows. One of the Germans unknown to the others, had in his possession about five hundred dollars in coin. On the night named, two men came in masked, with a candle lit, revolvers cocked, and demanded their money. One of the men jumped out of bed, when one of the robbers commenced shooting and hit the German three times—once in the hand, once in the stomach and once in the hip. In the meantime, one of the other Germans, seeing that no quarters were to be given, clinched one of the robbers and threw him down, whereupon the other robber shot at him, but in the scuffle shot his accomplice, through mistake. The third German, a little tailor, from Walla Walla, (the one with the money) crawled out and ran away, leaving his funds in bed which the robbers took and left. The next morning the robbers were tracked by blood to the bank of Clearwater, and thence all traces of them were lost. The citizens of Lewiston offered a reward (by subscription) of five hundred dollars for the apprehension of the robbers.

To continue our journey, we left Lewiston on the morning of the 29th, in company with I. E. Jagger, who brought the express to Walla Walla. Found the ferry boat on Snake river gone—caused by some drunken Indians trying to go across in the night. They not knowing how to manage the boat, it broke away and drifted down the river, leaving us to swim our horses, which was done without accident. We did not arrive at Turner's till 10 P M—distance 25 miles. Snow on the divide one foot in depth. Left on the following morning in a big snow storm, and arrived at Stubbs on the Touchet, at 8 P M, still snowing. Started the following morning, snow one foot deep. Arrived at Walla Walla Dec 31st, at 5 P M.

Spent New Year's in sleigh-riding and loafing about the lively town. In the evening, all hands went to the theatre to see Miss Susie Robinson and the Robinson family in general, perform the play of Perfection.

After waiting for the stage, which was behind, owing to Miller's portion of the line not being up to time, we managed to get away on Blackmore's stage on Saturday morning Jan 4, 1862. We went on our way rejoicing, for we all wanted to get down to the land of big red apples—some pretended to say to wet our whistles. We were joined by Jno James, Tracy & Co's express messenger, W A Moody, Mr Niles, and H Wellington. Arrived at the Umatilla House at 6 o'clock, distance 40 miles, snow 13 inches deep. Left on the following morning, and arrived at Wells Springs at 5 o'clock. Expected to find at this station Miller's stage, which should, according to schedule, have been there nearly a week previous, and found that the passengers who had been brought down on previous trip of the stage had to walk to the next station, and were there still waiting for Miller. Two of the passengers in the transit froze their feet and we would not be surprised if they made Miller smart for it.

For the benefit of the traveling public, we will give a description of Wells Spring station, where passengers are expected to stop for the night. It is a building say 20 by 30 feet without a floor save that of mother earth. In the building we found two stoves, without pipe connected to them. Here we were only able to get a cup of coffee, though the party had [illegible] and [illegible] crackers, which [illegible] nothing to entertain [illegible] daylight in the morning. There was but an armfull of wood to be found about the premises, which we bought, paying two dollars for it. After it was burned up, agreeable to Blackmore's orders, "if Miller is not yet at Wells Springs go on till you meet him," we left Wells Springs at 12 o'clock M. It was so dark we were unable to keep the road without some one going ahead with a lantern to pilot the way. It was 15 miles to Willow creek station so we took turns until the little horses of Miller's were unable to haul us. All footed it, helping the stage up hills, which by the way are not a few.

We arrived at Willow creek, at daylight, and we found passengers of previous trip down. Got a tip top breakfast, left at eight o'clock a m and arrived at John Day's river at dark—distance twenty five miles. Hungry and tired. Here we found a house—went in, enquired for food for ourselves and fodder for the horses. We were told that we could have nothing, as they had no provisions.—And an Irishman whom we supposed was the landlord bawled out [illegible] and we had better camp [illegible] the river [illegible] as he could not entertain. We told him we were cold and had no axe and were going to stop right where we were, and more, if there was anything to eat in the house we wanted it—would pay well for everything. A. Whereupon he brought out three biscuits for nine hungry men. We said we would take an inventory of the kitchen, where we found corn meal, bacon, beans, liquor, &c, which we helped ourselves to, and some went to work cutting wood, others cooking, and in course of an hour had supper ready. Next morning we expected to start at daylight, but to our disappointment, Mr Scott, the owner of the ferry, gave word to his man not to cross the stage, on account of drift ice, which in reality need not have stopped the ferry boat, as on the arrival of Miller's stage two days after the boat was crossed, the ice was no more than when we arrived. As there was no food for the horses, we reluctantly let the stage return. We could not help thanking the driver, John Stephens, for his willingness to put us through to the Dalles although he had driven night and day, also for his skilful driving.

After waiting two days we were sitting around a poor fire when one rushed in and said "Miller's stage was coming down the hill on the other side of the river." We all gave three cheers. Saw it drive on the boat and soon was on this side, when to our disappointment, we were told that they were bound for Walla Walla with passengers bound through. James, Tracy & Co's messenger, sent eight miles up the river for four horses, we having got a wagon already borrowed, to take the express treasure and passengers; which fortunately came, and the day following we expected to get away early, but a snow storm came up in the evening previous, after which a big wind drifted the road so full of snow that we were unable to go a hundred yards. So back again we started for the house which had kept us for four days already.

To return a little in our story, the next day after our arrival we found the airy Irishman was not the real landlord, but an old man who loves whisky and hates snakes was the man, and a cross old fellow he was, but we were too many, and he naturally weakened when he saw us call a meeting and take things into our hands. We found the provisions not as bountiful in the house as so many men would require, provided we should have to remain here any length of time, so we took a look in the barn, and found lots of provisions, of different kinds, the property of C. Jacobs, of Walla Walla, which we were right glad to find, and when the landlord said we must not take any of them, with one accord all said "they knew Jacobs," and on that ground just took what we wanted, keeping a strict account of the same, wherein we might pay for what we used. Owing to the probability of our remaining weeks perhaps, at this place, and as there was a disposition on the part of some to grumble when work was to be done, all were called to order. On motion I. E. Jagger, was elected President, and John James Secretary. On motion, the following occupations were written on strips of paper and placed in a hat, and each drawing his position as follows: W A Moody, Eugene City, commissary; Dr Jas. Gay, Eugene City, woodman No 1; T S Jeffries, Bethel, Polk county, woodman No 2; R. Bolton, Sailor Diggins, Cal, cook No 1; F. M Allphin, Umatilla, Oregon, cook No. 2; John James, Walla Walla, dish washer No. 1; C Wilson, dish washer No 2; H Wellington, California, water tender; I E. Jagger, steward, stoker and slush lamp man.—All agreed to fill their stations, and so it was proved by demonstration. Finding no way to get to the Des Chutes, on Sunday morning 12th inst, Messrs Moody, Gay, Allphin and Davis started on foot through the snow, from where a team might be sent to us to take the express treasure and our luggage.

CITY.

IN MEMORIAM.—When the news of the death of Mr. [illegible] Tagger reached this city, the flags of the [illegible] engine houses were displayed at half mast, he being a member of Multnomah No. [illegible] Tagger was an old resident of Portland, and was well known throughout the country as [illegible] and promising young man. His death is deeply deplored by a large circle of friends and acquaintances, in this city.

LAID UP.—The steamer Onward, on the Upper Willamette, has laid up for the present—until the weather moderates.

EXPRESS FOR SALMON RIVER.—By reference to advertisement it will be seen that Tracy & Co., the enterprising Express Company, will start a messenger on Saturday next for Salmon River, by way of the Dalles and Walla Walla.

WEATHER.—Last night at eight o'clock, Mercury stood fourteen degrees below the freezing point, and growing colder.

FOR OLYMPIA.—The steamer Cowlitz will leave this evening for Monticello.

TELEGRAPH MEETING.—In consequence of the small amount of stock represented at the Telegraph Meeting last night, it was adjourned to meet in eight weeks from date.
